Dark Chapter: Nazi Doctors Accused Of Personal Selection Of Euthanasia Victims For Hitler's Program Were Determined Not To Let Trial Take Place, Prosecutor Says; Some Who Took Part Still Practice, Former Camp Victims Allege

In Frankfurt's ancient Römer, once used by the German emperors and now by the city council, the trial is re-inquiring into one of the darkest of all chapters of German history. Twenty-two men, all former members of the S.S. stand trial for their alleged part in the murder of an "unknown number" of human beings at Auschwitz concentration camp during the war.

So many Jews and Poles, Russian prisoners of war, and gypsies were gassed in Poland that the figures of dead fluctuate between two and a half and four million, says the London Times. One of the tasks of the Frankfurt assizes during the trial will, be to try to arrive at some more reliable estimate.

This trial before three judges and six jurymen, three of them women and all contemporaries of the accused, is the biggest of the war crimes trials which the Federal Republic has been holding regularly during the past few years. About 360 witnesses, including many from Israel, the United States, and Poland will be heard and the trial is expected to last up to six months. More than 100 journalists are at the hearings which are being held in the council chamber because no court room in the city is large enough.

The 22 accused are among some 8,000 members of the S.S. who served in Auschwitz between 1940 and 1944 and include two former adjutants to the camp commandant, camp doctors and chemists, secret police, and camp overseers. They have been chosen from some 950 cases.

Only nine of the accused are in custody. Since the war the 22 have lived and worked in West Germany.

An important factor in the trial is expected to be the accused's alleged participation in the selection of the Jews and others as they arrived by train from all over Nazi-occupied Europe to go either to the gas chambers or, so long as they stayed fit, to do war work, says the London Times. The prosecution seeks to prove that the accused persons personally took part in the choosing.

Individual charges against the accused include the poisoning by injection of a total of 20,000 inmates, including 200 one Christmas Eve; shooting women and children in the neck; torturing inmates on a so-called "seesaw" from which they subsequently died; and consigning a Jewish mother and daughter who refused to be separated, alive to a crematorium.

The last commandant of Auschwitz and the principal accused, Richard Baer, died of a heart attack while under arrest last June. Baer was discovered three years ago working under an assumed name as a forester in the woods near Hamburg.

Two other principal figures at Auschwitz are also absent, Rudolf Höss the man who on instructions from Himmler and Eichmann built up the extermination camp for the "final solution of the Jewish problem", who was hanged by the Poles in 1947; and Dr. Josef Mengele, chief doctor at the camp, who is believed to be living in South America with a price of DM.30,000 (about £2,700) put on his head in 1961 by the West German police.

The trial takes place in Frankfurt because a former inmate of the camp, dissatisfied with the progress of his postwar claim to compensation, handed S.S. documents from the camp in his possession over to a Frankfurt journalist in 1958.

These were passed to Dr. Fritz Bauer, the Hessian prosecutor-general, who ordered the first inquiries. The man had been able to acquire the documents when the S.S. were burning their files in Breslau before the advancing Red Army.

Dr. Werner Heyde, the main defendant in the euthanasia trial at Limburg, hanged himself with his belt in a cell, a few weeks ago, and was found hanging from a radiator at the prison of Butzbach, near Frankfurt. Another defendant in the trial Friedrich Tillmann, fell to his death from the eighth floor of a Cologne office building, says the London Times. It is not yet clear whether this was suicide or accidental death.

Heyde, who concealed his identity for many years in Flensburg under the name of Dr. Sawade, and was appointed expert to the labour court of Schleswig-Holstein, was generally regarded as one of the key figures in the Nazi T4, the pseudonym for the so-called "mercy killings" organization.

As head of the Reich Association for Hospitals and Sanatoria, he controlled all aspects of the operation under which more than 100,000 mental patients were done to death from 1940 onwards. This was regarded as a rehearsal for the "final solution" of the Jewish question.

Thousands of questionnaires were sent out from Berlin to the directors of hospitals and mental homes, who had provided detailed information about their patients. A three-man committee then decided on the fate of the "incurables". The last word rested with the supervisory committee to which Heyde belonged.

The victims were then transferred on some excuse or other to one of the designated extermination centres, and gassed with carbon monoxide. Mobile crematoria disposed of the corpses. The local authorities then sent relatives certificates of "death from natural causes".

The true fate of the patients became apparent, however, when some relatives accidentally received several death certificates each giving a different cause of death. When the churches, and especially the Bishop of Munster, Count von Galen, openly protested against these crimes, the operation was stopped in August, 1941. But the euthanasia specialists had already started on a second program of killing under which special commissions toured concentration camps selecting prisoners "unworthy of living" for the gas chambers. Heyde was said to have been active at Buchenwald.

The documentation in the case runs to 84,000 pages, and the indictment alone is 900 pages long. Three hundred witnesses have been called. The Limburg criminal court has had the court room enlarged and modernized especially for the trial, which some 100 German and foreign press correspondents are covering.

The West German Medical Association is inquiring into allegations that doctors who took part in the Nazi euthanasia program are still practising in the Federal Republic. The names of twenty-four suspects were recently put before the association by a group of former concentration camp inmates.

Dr. Ernst Fromm, president of the association, said it was possible that "one or two" doctors might have "disappeared" and taken an alias after allied sentences after the war. The association's Länder branches had been asked to study reported cases in their own area, says the London Times. Dr. Fromm believed, however, that many of the 24 were either dead, forbidden by the health authorities to practise or already the subject of legal inquiries.

The association sent representatives to all trials involving doctors among the accused, including the trial in Limburg, near Frankfurt, at which Dr. Werner Heyde, alias Sawada, who was accused of the killing of 100,000 persons during the war and who took his own life, was to have appeared.

German doctors, Dr. Fromm said, had always strongly opposed the Nazi euthanasia practices, which were a crime.

A former S.S. cavalry officer, who was said to have been employed by the British military government as an interrogation officer in Germany after the war, went on trial at the Brunswick assizes accused of participating in the wartime murder of 5,200 Polish Jews.

With Hans-Walter Zech-Nennt-wich, aged 47, on trial are four other men, all former officers of the 2nd S.S. cavalry regiment, who are alleged to have taken part in

Former A.J.C. Head For 17 Years Worked Only For Human Good

Morris D. Waldman, executive head of the American Jewish Committee from 1928 to 1945, and a leader in Jewish welfare work, died in New York at the Hospital for Joint Diseases. He was eighty-four years old and lived at 205 West 86th Street. In 1944 Mr. Waldman declared that the "minorities treaties" of 1919 and 1920 set up by the Treaty of Versailles peacemakers had failed to protect racial and religious minorities, says the New York Times. He proposed the adoption of an international bill of rights "for the protection of all human beings as such, rather than their protection as a majority or minority."

His proposal was submitted by the American Jewish Committee to the organizing conference of the United Nations in San Francisco in 1946, and it was instrumental in putting the human rights provision in the United Nations Charter.

For 17 years Mr. Waldman directed the American Jewish Committee, a human relations agency that combats anti-Semitism and other forms of bigotry, protects civil and religious rights of Jews, and tries to improve human relations for all. As executive head of the Committee Mr. Waldman said that to understand anti-Semitism, it was necessary to use social-science research.

He was a lay member of the executive committee of the Committee until his death. Before joining it, Mr. Waldman had spent more than 25 years in social work and community organization.

He was born in Hungary, and was brought to the United States at the age of four years. He was graduated from New York University and in 1898 from the Jewish Theological Seminary, and took graduate work at Columbia University.

Mr. Waldman was ordained a rabbi and served as religious leader of Temple Anshe Emeth in New Brunswick, N. J., from 1900 to 1903, but then gave up the pulpit for social service. He was managing director of the United Hebrew Charities from 1908 to 1917; assistant director general of the civilian department of the American Red Cross in 1917. He organized or reorganized Federations of Jewish Charities in several cities, and was a leader in the fight against anti-Semitism.

Mr. Waldman was European director of the medico-sanitary and war-orphans department of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee in 1921-22. Under his direction, training for nurses and X-ray diagnosis were introduced into hospitals in eastern Europe.

Mr. Waldman was the author of "Nor By Power," which was published by International Universities Press in 1953. It was a review

Goldberg Would Change Criminal Laws To Give Justice To Poor

U. S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg called for sweeping reforms of laws in the American judicial system which fail to give "equal criminal justice" to the nation's lower-income families. Justice Goldberg, delivering the Louis Dembitz Brandeis Memorial Lecture at Brandeis University, at Waltham, Mass., told an overflow audience in the University's Shapiro Athletic Center that he doubted "whether half of the families in this affluent country could today afford an adequate defense if one of their members was accused of a serious crime."

Among his proposals, Justice Goldberg called for reimbursing for defense expenditures persons who are found innocent of criminal charges; compensating the victims of crimes; providing convicted persons with equal opportunity for parole or probation; financing the investigatory services of the defense counsel; releasing defendants without bail "wherever feasible;" and re-examination of the fine-or-imprisonment alternative that forces many persons to go to jail for lack of funds.

Claiming that "equal criminal justice for rich and poor alike is one of the few areas where our country follows rather than leads," Justice Goldberg proposed that the following specific measures be considered to improve a situation which he said "cannot be long tolerated":

Adoption of "procedures whereby persons erroneously charged

ORT — the Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training — has expanded its global facilities to include impoverished Jewish communities in India and Ethiopia. With this extension, the ORT network of 600 vocational schools and units is now operating in twenty countries on five continents, says the New York Times. Generally recognized as the largest nongovernmental vocational training agency in the world, ORT is devoted to the training of unskilled Jews.

Its schools now have more than 40,000 students, including poverty-stricken refugees and immigrants seeking a new life and youngsters trying to build a productive, secure future.

In an interview with the New York Times, Mrs. Max M. Rosenberg, of Short Hills, N.J., the national president of Women's American ORT, described the operation in Ethopia and India as a "crash program of vocational instruction" embracing short-term courses to meet the demands of underprivileged Jewish communities.

Her organization, which had just ended its 17th biennial convention in New York, has 60,000 members and is the largest affiliate in the worldwide "ORT family."

In Ethiopia, Mrs. Rosenberg said, a lone ORT instructor had made his way into the interior with a mobile school unit in which he sleeps, prepares his own food, and carries training equipment to teach basic courses in agro-mechanics and machinery-repair to the Jews living there.

The Falasha Jewish community of 30,000 black Jews in Ethiopia, reputed to be descended from the Queen of Sheba, engages in farming, weaving, and handicrafts. "Many of these people still use the tools and artifacts of Biblical times," Mrs. Rosenberg noted. She said that the 19,000 Jews living in

REMEMBER

The memories of Passovers gone by—the search and sale of the Chometz—Grandpa poking around the kitchen, making the horseradish and the Charoseth—putting on the new suit of clothes and shoes—pockets full of hand nuts—and almonds—anxiously waiting for the Seder to start—Uncle Joe and Aunt Sadie were always late—the whole family together—Grandpa looking like a king propping the pillow on the chair beside him—Grandma tired after baking and cooking all day but "My Yiddel" my queen, he called her—the Haggadah and then my turn for "Ma Nishtanah" and the answer given with Grandpa's voice ringing out over all—the first half of the Haggadah almost over—even the bitter herbs tasted so good—Passover it was always "strong"—all were compelled to eat it otherwise we could not get the hard boiled eggs and salt water—and then the meal—nobody, but nobody, could cook better than Grandma—we ate—and ate and then the "Afikomen"—and the rest of the Haggadah—and some more cups of wine—and the opening of the door—and the stories of how in the old country someone frightened the whole family by appearing at that door—but best of all the songs with which the second half of the Haggadah abounds—and the feeling of drowsiness—contentment—and the thought that tomorrow the same thing once more.....

MONTREAL ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, 955 Trudeau Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Brown, to Charles Akerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Akerman, 6120 Darlington Avenue, formerly of Paris, France. The marriage will take place on August 16, at Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue.

MARRIAGES

ALTRO-RUDNER

The marriage of Miss Shirley Rudner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rudner, 4630 Barclay Avenue, to Arnold Altro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Altro, 4880 De Bullion Street, was solemnized at Shomrim Laboker Synagogue, on Sunday, December 1, at six o'clock, by Dr. Chaim N. Denburg, Rabbi, assisted by Cantor Arieh L. Subar. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a fitted, white, peau de soie gown, made with a beaded bodice, with a high neckline; three-quarter-length sleeves; and an A-line skirt. Her tulle illusion veil was placed by a seed-pearl-beaded crown; and she carried a prayer book with white orchids. Miss Myrna Alper was maid of honour. She wore a sleeveless, blue, peau de soie gown, made with a beaded bodice; and round neckline. She had a blue head-band; and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Marsha Rudner, aged fourteen years, sister of the bride; and Lisa Altro, aged nine years, sister of the groom, were attendants, dressed alike in blue, peau de soie dresses; with blue tiaras; and carried nosegays of white, and blue carnations. Steven Altro was his brother's best man. The ushers were: Michael Garonce, Lester Abrams, Martin Rudner, Howard Rudner, cousins of the bride; Allan Sobel, Abe Gonshore, Jerry Heitner, and Morton Sacks. Blue, and white carnations, roses, and chrysanthemums in standards decorated the Synagogue. The wedding music was played by an orchestra. Two hundred and seventy-five guests were present at a candlelight dinner. Mrs. Rudner, mother of the bride, wore a sleeveless, blue, peau de soie sheath; made with a scoop neckline; also a blue hat. Mrs. Altro, mother of the groom, wore a sleeveless sheath of turquoise-blue, peau de soie, and lace; and her hat matched it. Each had a corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Annie Rudner, grandmother of the bride, wore a blue, beaded, peau de soie sheath; and her hat matched it. Mrs. Toba Moness, grandmother of the groom, wore a grey, lace gown; and a grey hat. Their flowers were corsages of white orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Altro spent their wedding trip at the Deauville Hotel, in Miami Beach, Florida, travelling via Eastern Air Lines, the bride going away in a red, knitted suit. They have taken up residence at 4635 Bourret Street. Here for the marriage were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Rostaker, uncle, and aunt of the bride, and Evan Howard; and Mrs. A. Chasen; all of Bergenfeld, N. J.

GOLDBERG WOULD CHANGE LAWS

with crime could be reimbursed for their expenditures in defending against the charge or, "at the very least," extension of the provision of free legal services in criminal cases to include many hard-working people who, although not indigent, cannot, without extraordinary sacrifice, raise sufficient funds to defend themselves or a member of their family against a criminal charge."

Government compensation of victims of crime, because "the victim of a robbery or an assault has been denied the 'protection' of the laws in a very real sense, and society should assume some responsibility for making him whole."

Assurance that the poor have equal access to probation and parole by, for example, "providing facilities which would enable the parolee without means to obtain out-patient psychiatric treatment without being institutionalized and losing his job, "a privilege heretofore reserved exclusively for the wealthy, and by the half-way house system, under which convicted criminals might be released from prison and still remain under the care and responsibility of the Government until they have re-established their roots in the community and have found decent jobs."

Arming of the appointed defense counsel "with the tools of advocacy, investigatory resources, expert witnesses, subpoena, trial transcript", at government expense to those unable to afford such services.

Release of defendants without bail "as a rule rather than an exception throughout the country, because it is needless waste every time a responsible person presumed by a law to be innocent is kept in jail awaiting trial solely because he is unable to raise bail money."

Re-examination of the "alternative fine-imprisonment penalty still frequently imposed for petty offenses," which often offers no choice at all to the person who cannot raise the fine.

Justice Goldberg said that, "we must confess that government in this country, both state and federal, has not done all that can reasonably be required to eliminate the disparities" in the area of criminal justice. America must lead in equality if we are to continue to lead in liberty." Justice Goldberg said he hoped "that many more established lawyers will bring their experience, and that many more young law graduates will bring the most recent academic developments to bear on the problems of criminal justice."

"Above, all," he said, "if equal justice under law is to be assured for all, the general public must support much-needed reforms. We can learn much from the Scandinavian countries in our efforts to rectify inequalities in criminal justice. The services provided there are made available to all accused persons. No test of financial capacity is applied in the first instance as a condition to receiving them."

Earlier in his talk, Justice Goldberg observed that "more poor people than rich are arrested for crimes they did not commit. When the police conduct a round-up of 'suspects', they generally do so in poor neighborhoods, rarely in middle class communities."

ORT TRAINS 40,000, IN 20 COUNTRIES

India were largely concentrated in the Bombay area and were impoverished.

Among them ORT has established an installation that includes first-year courses to train machinists and mechanics with a view to expanding industry. There are also courses in advanced mechanics, mechanical drawing, and machine maintenance. At present there is an enrollment of forty-two, but in the near future the school will be able to serve 150 full-time students.

ORT's program in India and in Ethiopia, as in every nation where it operates, is designed to raise the living standard of the population. Training is given in more than seventy modern industrial skills adapted to the local economy.

The standard ORT school is a vocational high school with a three to four-year curriculum in which an academic high school education is given along with technical training. ORT also conducts special programs for those lacking the time or the requisite prior education to attend a regular high-school course.

ORT's greatest concentration of effort now is in France because of the heavy influx of Jewish immigration from Algeria.

In Israel ORT conducts its largest single operation, maintaining more than 100 training units, including the Women's American Ort-built Aron Syngalowski Center.

The 83-year-old ORT was founded in the St. Petersburg of Czarist Russia when a reform law let Jews engage in industry and agriculture. From that small beginning, made possible by two donations totalling some 25,000 gold rubles, the organization is now recognized as "the vocational training agency of the Jewish people," says the New York Times. Its credo is that the human being "is best aided by being helped to become independent, self-supporting, and self-respecting."

"Buon giorno, Signor Rabinowitz."

Rabinowitz?

Rabinowitz, what in the world are you doing on an Italian airline?

Aren't you going to Tel Aviv?

What's so surprising? For years now, one of Alitalia's busiest runs has been to Tel Aviv. From Montreal, from New York, Chicago and Boston.

Perhaps it's the kosher catering. (Optional of course). Or the service. Or the convenience of the flight schedule.

We like to think one attraction is that uniquely warm Italian atmosphere aboard Alitalia Jets.

Anyway, an awful lot of people seem to like it. And more each year. So we're expanding our schedule. (Coming soon, daily flights to Tel Aviv.)

The Rabinowitzes are going first class. If you're budget minded, Alitalia has a special group fare you may find more convenient.

Your Travel Agent can explain it best. He'll help you arrange your itinerary just the way you want it. Alitalia flies 3 weekly non-stop DC-8 jets from Canada to Italy. From Rome immediate connections to Tel Aviv.

Welcome aboard, again, Mr. and Mrs. Rabinowitz. We hope your trip to Israel this year with us is just as enjoyable as you said it was last year.

Dark Chapter: Nazi Doctors Were Determined Not To Let Trial Take Place the carrying out of an annihilation order from Himmler in the Pinsk ghetto in August, 1941.

Zech-Nenntwich, who became director of a Rhineland film company before he was arrested in July, deserted via Sweden to Britain in February, 1943. He said he worked for a British propaganda radio station against Nazi Germany. He was brought to North Rhine-Westphalia by the British after the war, working first in interrogation and later as a British agent.

More than 100 witnesses have been called for the trial which is expected to last about six weeks.

This is one of four trials of Germans charged with wartime crimes, all taking place at this time in the Federal Republic. The reason why they are still taking place nineteen years after the end of the war is that many of the documents containing evidence against the men now on trial became accessible to the German judicial authorities only within the past three or four years, says the London Times, and the work of sifting them and of preparing the case so long after the event inevitably demands enormous time and effort.

An anonymous letter signed with a swastika threatened death to all the prosecution lawyers and witnesses in the Auschwitz trial at Frankfurt.

The Heyde case caused wide reverberations and is believed to have forced West German authorities to intensify their efforts to track down war criminals, says the New York Times. Interned by the United States Army in 1945, Hyde disappeared while being transported from Nuremberg to Frankfurt in a truck.

Using the alias of Fritz Sawade, Heyde then went to Flensburg, on the Danish border, and during the next 14 years he earned 800,000 marks ($76,000) by writing medical opinions for the Schleswig-Holstein State Insurance Agency and State Social Court.

After his identity came to light, an investigation committee of the Parliament established that at least eighteen physicians, judges, and state officials had known that "Fritz Sawade" was in fact Heyde.

Heyde, to make his detection harder, had arranged to have his wife declare him dead. Mrs. Heyde, living in Munich, applied for and received a widow's pension. The fraud brought her a one-year prison term.

Heyde was considered a key figure in Hitler's program of murdering insane and mentally retarded people. As head of the Reich Society for Mental Institutions, he had the last word in selecting for extermination more than 100,000 people.

His office collected data from all German mental institutions, then picked the victims for gassing in one of six specially equipped hospitals. In 1941, after the German public had learned about the extermination program, Hitler stopped it. However, Heyde's office merely switched over to selecting for death "unfit" people in concentration camps.

After Heyde surrendered in November, 1959, the state prosecutor of Hesse immediately set out to bring him and his helpers to trial, says the New York Times. A result of the four year work was a 900-page indictment. Three hundred witnesses have been invited to testify at the trial.

Dr. Fritz Bauer, the chief prosecutor of the state of Hesse, said at a news conference that he "strongly suspected" that Heyde's suicide had been "provoked by someone behind the scenes."

The prosecutor said his suspicion was based on the "probable" suicide of Tillmann and the disappearance of Bohne. "In my office," Dr. Bauer continued, "the opinion always prevailed that the accused were determined not to let this trial take place."

In 1958, West German law-enforcement agencies began a systematic prosecution of persons accused of wartime criminal acts. Several years were required to assemble evidence in Germany and from abroad. A central investigating agency has turned over for prosecution more than 500 cases in the last three years.

Dr. Werner Heyde was regarded as one of the three Nazi doctors most responsible for Hitler's program of eradicating unworthy Germans and racial "inferiors."

When Dr. Bernhard Bohne disappeared to Latin America last summer from his Duesseldorf home, after being freed from pretrial custody because of poor health, there were rumors that he had been helped by friends outside the country, and that an attempt would be made to engineer Heyde's escape from prison.

To prevent any such attempt, Heyde was moved from Limburg to Frankfurt's Butzbach Prison and kept under special guard. He was found on the floor of his cell there with one end of his belt looped around his neck and the other attached to a radiator.

He was still alive when a guard discovered him, officials said, but died a few minutes later in the prison hospital, says the New York Herald Tribune. He had managed to hang himself between 9 a.m., when he was given a sedative after hearing of Tillmann's suicide, and 9:10 a.m., when he was found on the floor.

"We always feared something like this," admitted Dr. Bauer, the Hessian chief prosecutor. "You can take precautions with an ordinary prisoner but a doctor can always find a way." Heyde apparently killed himself simply by giving his head a sudden jerk, but prison doctors were also investigating the possibility of poison.

A pre-war psychiatrist and professor of medicine at Wuerzburg University, Heyde joined the Nazi party as long ago as 1933 and rose to the rank of colonel in the SS (Elite Guard). With two other doctors, he headed the infamous T-4 program, named for its headquarters at Tiergartenstrasse Four in Berlin.

T-4 succeeded in exterminating an estimated 200,000 people before church protests halted its work in 1941. Afterward its gas chambers and crematoriums moved to new Nazi death camps, and SS chief Heinrich Himmler reportedly sent Heyde to the camps as an adviser to the Gestapo on which prisoners to kill and which to assign to slave labor.

One of Heyde's co-leaders in T-4 committed suicide at the end of the war. Another was hanged by the British. But Heyde escaped from American custody in 1947, says the New York Herald Tribune, changed his name to Dr. Fritz Sawade and — with the help of many Germans who knew his real identity — evaded capture for twelve more years.

In 1961, an official report said seventeen judges and doctors, and at least one senior government official, protected Heyde from discovery so well that he became chief medical adviser to the Schleswig-Holstein state welfare court.

Frankfurt Jewry Memorial Book Of A Vanished Community Is Safe In Israel

The Jewish National and University Library recently received a rare and important gift from an anonymous donor in the U.S. It is the Memorial Book (Memorbuch) of the Jewish community of Frankfurt-on-Main — formerly one of the largest and best-known Jewish communities in Germany — for the years 1629-1901.

The book, which consists of 1,073 parchment pages, contains the names of thousands of the Jewish dead of Frankfurt as well as of the most notable Jewish figures in Europe at the time. On many of its pages are historically valuable genealogies, biographies and references to events, such as the destruction of Jewish communities during the pogroms which followed the Crusades. All the inscriptions are handwritten, in Hebrew, often in very beautiful script.

Bought by the donor for a considerable sum, the book was presented to the Library in tribute to the memory of three generations of the Rothschild family, represented by Baron Wilhelm Carl von Rothschild, Baron Edmond de Rothschild ("the father of the Yishuv") and James A. de Rothschild, "each of whom loved and made possible the building of Israel". The House of Rothschild originated in Frankfurt, and Mayer Anselm Rothschild, who founded it, is eulogised in the book as a man of piety, goodness, and learning. The final entry is a lengthy reference to Baron Wilhelm, the last Rothschild to have lived in the city.

The writing of the book was begun in the year 1712, following the destruction of the former Memorial Book in a fire the previous year in which a large part of the Frankfurt ghetto went up in flames. The fire is recorded in the book, as also the fact that the initiative in starting the Memorbuch anew was taken by a Rabbi Eleazar Lazer Oppenheim.

The leather cover of the Memorial Book, is embossed and ornamented in gold. The weight of the leather adds considerably to the total weight of the book, which is in the neighbourhood of forty pounds.

The book was saved by the last rabbi of the Frankfurt Jewish community, Rabbi Leopold Neuhaus, who, before being deported by the Nazis to Thersienstadt, managed to bury it in the ground in a tin box. The rabbi survived incarceration in the concentration camp, and on returning to Frankfurt at the end of the war retrieved the book and transferred it to the U.S.

guilty of genocide as well as those who publish statements likely "to injure a national, ethnic or religious group as such, by exposing such group to hatred, contempt or ridicule".

Mr. Orlikow and Mr. Klein are both members of the National Council of the Canadian Jewish Congress.

A letter in the Montreal Gazette (February 25th), signed Gilles Beaner, suggested that "legislation to outlaw all forms of hate incitement, oral or written, in Canada" is "not so much designed to protect the public as to put discriminating power in effect to suit the selfish interest of certain ethnic groups . . . Attacks against a political party or any group of English, French, or Russian are normal as long as our right to prove our rightness is not mitigated. The Criminal Code is there for use against offenders."

A column by Dr. S. Margoshes in "The Day—Morning Journal" (February 23rd) commented on the legislative measure suggested by Mr. Klein, also referring to the Canadian Jewish Congress submission, asking that "changes be made in the Criminal Code to cover the distribution of such hate material as could be defined as spreading false news."

There were references to Brotherhood Week in the Manitoba Legislature February 14th made by M. A. Gray, M.L.A. (who is Honorary Vice-President of Congress). The Premier of the Province, the Hon. Duff Roblin, said that "this whole question is not some abstract matter for somebody in a foreign land to take under advisement when it suits them, but it is a matter which concerns each one of us here individually as representatives and as citizens in this province, and it presents to us problems which try human nature to its depths."

The Central Region of Congress, in a communication signed by M. W. Gasner, Chairman of the Region, and J. S. Midanik, Chairman of the Joint Community Relations Committee, urged organizations in Toronto to give expression to their concern over the spread of anti-Semitic materials and the need for legislative enactments against it by advising the Minister of Justice and the members of Parliament of their sentiments.

The La Presse (February 29th) had a write-up on the views of Jews in Montreal towards "new realities in Quebec," including interviews with Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi; Samuel Bronfman, Prof. Maxwell Cohen, Irving Layton, and Joseph Gallay.

Bar-Ilan U. Establishes John F. Kennedy Chair

At festive ceremonies on the campus of the Bar-Ilan University, the only American-chartered University in Israel, Dr. Joseph H. Lookstein, acting-president, announced the establishment of the John F. Kennedy Chair in American Civilization, to serve as a permanent and reverent memorial to the late President of the United States. In announcing this Chair, Dr. Lookstein paid tribute to the brilliant, dynamic, and heroic champion of American democracy. He declared:

"The University intends to invite, as occupants of the John F. Kennedy Chair, the foremost academic personalities of the United States, of all faiths and of all colors. To our campus will thus be brought men of letters, philosophers, social and political scientists, statesmen and teachers. Through the medium of their specializations and disciplines, they will expound the teachings, experiences, and contributions of the American way of life.

"We expect that generations of students at Bar-Ilan and the citizens of Israel, at large, will learn and profit by the rich insights into American civilization and by contact with these illustrious scholars and personalities who will grace our campus. Indeed, we are confident that their presence in this Holy Land will make for that cultural interchange which can best contribute to understanding, mutual respect, and peace among men and nations."

The ceremony took place at the University's Students' Recreation Center and was addressed by the Ambassador of the United States to Israel, Walworth Barbour, who presented the new American flag to Bar-Ilan University. Among the distinguished guests were members of the American Embassy; the Israel Foreign Office; the Israel-American Friendship League; Hitachdut Olei America and others who brought greetings in behalf of their organizations.

DARK CHAPTER: NAZI DOCTORS WERE DETERMINED NOT TO LET TRIAL PLACE

In 1959, hearing that the authorities were on his trail at last, Heyde disappeared from the North German city of Flensburg. But after a few weeks he gave himself up in Frankfurt.

Warden Georg Johanns said Heyde had been kept in solitary confinement, under 24-hour guard, since coming to Butzbach last September. He had seemed calm about the approaching trial until the man who shaved him told him of Tillmann's suicide.

There is no death penalty in West Germany, but maximum 15-year sentence would effectively have meant life imprisonment for Heyde, who was 61, and Tillmann, 60. Bohne is also 61, and Hefelmann is 58.

On February 3, Ewald Peters — chief security officer for West German Chancellor Erhard — hanged himself in a Bonn jail cell rather than face questioning about the mass murder of Jews in Russia during World War II. By taking his life before he was formally charged, he enabled his wife to collect his pension, says the New York Herald Tribune. Three days later, on February 6, ex-Nazi security officer Julius Garbler jumped to his death in Wels, Austria, before he could be tried for killing Poles during the war.

WEST GERMAN PROSECUTOR WANTS WITNESSES IN CASES OF BECHER AND ENDERS, EICHMANN AIDES

Two former members of the Gestapo, suspected of having served with Eichmann, are now under investigation by the West German authorities. They are Carl Willi Becher and Paul Enders. The World Jewish Congress in New York has received an appeal from a West German prosecutor for help in locating witnesses who may recall the activities of these two men.

Becher and Enders had the rank of Untersturmfehrer (Second Lieutenant) and served in Czechoslovakia, principally in the Prague area, in 1940. Becher is believed to be about 55 years of age, and Enders about 60. Both are suspected of having served on the staffs of Eichmann and Rajakowitsch and of having cooperated in the deportation of Czech Jews.

There are further charges against Enders who for a time held the rank of an officer in the Nazi Criminal Police and was involved in the preparation of deportations from Vienna, Budapest, and Italy. He is reported to have personally accompanied the transports of deportees to Auschwitz.

Anyone who may have been an eyewitness to the activities of these two men or knows anyone who is able to give evidence, is requested to get in touch with the Institute of Jewish Affairs at the World Jewish Congress, 15 East 84th Street, New York 28, N.Y.

The World Jewish Congress in New York is also seeking witnesses to the murder of 120 Jews who were shot to death in Austria on the eve of possible liberation. The incident occurred at Jennersdorf, Burgenland, Austria, in March, 1945.

People of the Book

The tide of Jewish history carries an overwhelming theme. In the face of every peril the love of learning in Jewish life flourished and survived

At first it encompassed the original wisdom of the Bible.

Later it added all knowledge, wherever it might be found. It earned for the Jewish people an honoured title, "People of the Book."

Ancient Jewish scholars recognized that knowledge could be man's greatest happiness. Their prayers asked God to "Inspire us to understand and to discern, to perceive . . ."

Modern man's need to understand, discern and perceive are greater than ever. Louis Brandeis, famous American lawyer and jurist put it best when he wrote, "Behind every argument is someone's ignorance."

★BNAI BRITH HILLEL★

Foundations: A loan and scholarship fund program at McGill University provided aid to many students this past semester. Over $2,700 was distributed to students of McGill University; Sir George Williams University; and the University of Montreal, in the form of bursary loans. This aid program is supervised by the Committee on Scholarships of the McGill Hillel board of directors. Mrs. Anne Bailey is chairman. Funds for these scholarship loans were provided by allocations from Bnai Brith Women and Bnai Brith Lodges, as well as individual gifts. A special capital fund for scholarship aid has been established by Mr. and Mrs. Max Seigler on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary, donated by them and their friends. Max Seigler is the former Dean of the Montreal City Council, having served as a Councillor for more than thirty years. Rabbi Samuel Cass, Bnai Brith Hillel director at McGill, also supervises the Hillel program at Sir George Williams University, and MacDonald College, and directs the Hillel Foundation Bursary Loan and the newly established Max Seigler Scholarship.

★ COMBINED JEWISH APPEAL ★

A goal of $4,385,000 for the 1964 Joint Campaign, with United Israel Appeal, was announced by George Scott, the new general chairman, at the annual meeting of the Business Men's Council. With him are these chairmen: Max Feldman, special names; Jack Kaufman, trades division; Thomas O. Hecht, professions; Henry Blatt, coordinator of functions; Arthur Rudnikoff, liaison; Robert M. Cummings, chairman at large; Mrs. Cecil Pascal, women's campaign chairman. The campaign takes place November 2 to 16. Total allocations of $2,895,000 towards the budgetary requirements of the participant beneficiaries of Combined Jewish Appeal have been approved by the board of directors. Moe Levitt is president. Michael Greenblatt, Q.C., is chairman of the budget committee. This money is from the proceeds of the 1963 Joint Campaign for Combined Jewish Appeal and United Israel Appeal which raised $4,090,276. According to prior agreement, 40 per cent of the total raised, or approximately $1,600,000, will go to the United Israel Appeal, which supports the overseas program of rescue, relief, and rehabilitation for Jewish immigrants settling in Israel, and transmits funds for overseas in the form of Canadian goods and supplies. Mr. Levitt pointed out that while the 1963 Joint Campaign raised approximately $140,000 more than the previous year, the amount available for CJA beneficiaries was $372,000 short of the total of agency requests to meet their budgetary requirements for the current year. The Federation of Jewish Community Services and its ten constituents, the largest group of agencies within the Appeal, sought $876,000 for 1964. However, the funds available for the Federation and all its agencies totalled only $827,000. The Baron de Hirsch Institute and Jewish Child Welfare Bureau is confronted with increased operating costs arising from the move to a new location closer to the centre of the Jewish population. In addition the Jewish Child Welfare Bureau had to raise rates for foster home board care. The Mount Sinai Sanatorium and the Maimonides Hospital and Home for the Aged are faced with a sharp rise in labor costs. In spite of these and other increased costs, the Jewish Federation will have to cut back on budgetary necessities in order to save about $50,000 the difference between its request and its allocation from Combined Jewish Appeal. The other agencies covered by the Federation allocation include: Neighbourhood House, Jewish Convalescent Hospital, Herzl Health Service Centre, Golden Age Program of National Council of Jewish Women, Camp Wooden Acres, Jewish Vocational Service. The Jewish General Hospital, which serves people of all faiths, has a growing deficit due in large part to the cost of outpatient treatments, research and teaching programs, which are not covered by the Quebec Hospital Insurance program, and the general raising of standards which have increased salary scales. The hospital requested $600,000 but CJA was only able to provide $430,000. Canadian Jewish Congress, also a participant beneficiary of the Combined Jewish Appeal, which conducts programs including community relations, teacher training, religious welfare and adult education, requested from CJA $180,000, but was limited to $158,000. Another major participant beneficiary, the United Jewish Relief Agencies, was granted $680,000, which is $85,000 less than the amount requested. The UJRA supports relief and rehabilitation for needy Jews in 27 countries abroad, carried on through the Joint Distribution Committee; Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training; the Alliance Israelite; the OSE medical service; the United Hias Service, and other overseas agencies. The UJRA also provides assistance for the settlement of Jewish immigrants in Canada. Like the United Israel Appeal, funds for overseas relief by the United Jewish Relief Agencies are transmetted in Canadian goods and supplies. Other CJA participants and their allocations for the current year are: Bnai Brith Hillel Foundation, $43,500; Jewish Public Library $47,500; Jewish Immigrant Aid Services, $65,000; Jewish Community Camps (Camp Bnai Brith and Jewish Laurentian Fresh Air Camp), $136,000. Total amounts for this group of agencies were $49,208 less than their total request.

Mrs. Jacobs, mother of the bride, wore a yellow silk gown, trimmed with gold-coloured beadwork. Her headpiece was of yellow silk, with a short veil. Mrs. Charles Dubin, sister of the groom, also received. She wore a gold-coloured, peau de soie gown; with a fitted bodice; and bell-shaped skirt in the front; also a matching headpiece. Their flowers were corsages of white orchids. Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Bernard Levine spent their honeymoon in Acapulco, and Mexico City, Mexico, travelling via Trans-Canada Air Lines. The bride departed in a white, wool suit, trimmed with white fox; and had a corsage of lime-green orchids. They have taken up residence at 555 Briar Hill Avenue. Here for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jacobs, Mack Brown, of Detroit, Mich., uncles, and aunts of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. L. U. S. Survivor Groups Of Nazi Violence Protest West German Decision To Cut Restitution Money

Nine American organizations representing survivors of Nazism from Germany, Hungary, Poland, Roumania, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia sent a cable to top West German government officials protesting the restitution plans of the German government now before the West German Parliament. The cable was addressed to Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder and Finance Minister Rolf Dahlgruen.

The nine organizations making the protest are: the Association of Yugoslav Jews in the U.S.; United Roumanian Jews of America, Inc.; Club of Polish Jews; Jewish Nazi Victims Organization of America; American Association of Former European Jurists; American Federation Of Jews From Central Europe; Association of Jews from Czechoslovakia In The U.S.; World Federation of Hungarian Jews; and the Widows' Group.

The cable is a protest against the decision of the German Finance Ministry to ask for only $100,000,000 in additional restitution money, whereas the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany has recommended that a minimum of $250,000,000 be provided for those survivors of Nazi persecution and confiscation who have as yet not received restitution from the West German government in accordance with the "debt of honor" pronouncements made in the past by the present German Chancellor, Ludwig Erhard, and the former Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer.

The cable, following a special meeting of the nine groups, expressed regret that the West German Finance Ministry refuses to request an increase in the hardship fund above 400 million Deutsche Marks (100,000,000) and to reopen registration for Nazi victims who for one reason or another had not previously made application for German restitution.

"Both decisions," the cable says, "are a bitter disappointment for persecutees who only by accident escaped the Nazi Hell. These decisions violate repeatedly basic pronouncements of both Bundes Chancellors and other personalities who have repeatedly said that compensation is a debt of honor.

"We protest this attitude for moral and legal reasons. If the West German Republic wants to compensate, even only partly, the immensity of the suffering and damage which, since 1933, was caused in Germany and in the conquered European countries in violation of all international and national principles of law, deeds which must have a real and just relationship to the committed crimes are necessary for fulfilling the debt of honor which the West German government has assumed.

"We appeal therefore to the West German Parliament and to the German government to give up petty fiscalism and replace it with a basic tenet of a speedy liberal and fair compensation."

The Canadian Jewish Congress Requests Remedial Action On Spread Of Anti-Semitic Hate Propaganda

The Canadian Jewish Congress sent a telegram to the Hon. Guy Favreau, Minister of Justice, submitting that the recent distribution of anti-Jewish propaganda in Toronto "patently incites to genocidal actions", and asked the Minister to give study and to take action within the Criminal Code on the specific basis of incitement to violent actions. It also submitted that this spread of hate materials offers other grounds for serious remedial steps.

The Postmaster General, the Hon. J. R. Nicholson, was advised of the submission and both Ministers were asked for an early meeting to discuss the issue further.

The Minister referred to the submission in the House of Commons on February 24, when a question was put in the House of Commons to him by David Orlikow,, M.P., whether the Minister "has given consideration to the hate literature which is now being distributed in various cities. Does the government consider that there is at the present time legislation which will prohibit this kind of literature being distributed through the mails and, if not, will the government give consideration to new legislation?"

The Minister's reply indicated that "unfortunately, in recent years there have been several occasions on which the distribution in Canada of anti-Semitic literature has come to the attention of the Department of Justice". The Minister added that the propaganda material which was brought to his attention "is of a particularly virulent nature".

The Minister also pointed out that "as a result of previous incidents of this kind, and representations received from the Canadian Jewish Congress, the possibility of amending the Criminal Code was referred to the Criminal Law section of the Conference of Commissioners on uniformity of legislation in Canada in 1962 by the then Minister of Justice. This body is composed of representatives of the Provincial Attorneys General and the Attorney General of Canada. It reported that while the objective sought to be attained was eminently desirable, no recommendation to amend the Criminal Law was made because no formula had been devised which would deal adequately with the problem without simultaneously affecting the general freedom of expression of opinion in an adverse way.

"Needless to say, all decent people deplore and despise such activities. The matter is still under active consideration, but I must confess that to date an acceptable and workable solution to the problem has not been devised. I want to add that I have received a communication concerning this matter from the Canadian Jewish Congress, and I will be meeting with representatives of that group on March 12 next".

The Rt. Hon. J. G. Diefenbaker, Leader of the Opposition, asked a supplementary question "whether or not an offence has been committed, the offence of sedition, in certain of these articles. I wonder if the law as it now stands is not sufficient for a prosecution to be launched against those who within the country are distributing it. I am not speaking about those who send it from abroad. I can understand the difficulty there, but since it has been distributed within Canada I suggest that the law as it now stands should be looked into in that regard". The Minister replied that the department "is presently making a study as to whether or not the matter falls within the provisions of the present Criminal Code".

Stanley Knowles, M.P., referred to the past office cancellation mark "Brotherhood Week — Believe it — Live it — Support it", which appears on some of the hate materials sent our from Scarborough, Ontario, saying that "all members of the House will be glad to know that this vicious anti-Semitic literature had, on the outside of the envelope, this suggestion that brotherhood was more important".

There was a column in the Toronto Star (by Ron Haggart) suggesting that the Post Office deny the use of boxes for such mailings. The Toronto Telegram had a column by Frank Tumpane suggesting legislation to curb the distribution of such materials.

The Rt. Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, the Moderator of the United Church of Canada, made a statement at the close of a five-day session at the annual meeting of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada recently held in Winnipeg, saying:

"Current attacks and threats to the life and property of our Jewish fellow citizens in Canada must be a subject of serious concern to all of us. Outworn and unproven assertions about Jewish responsibilities for the spread of Communism are being repeated in widely-circulated pamphlets and in other ways that indicate an organized attempt to discredit the life and work of an ancient and good people.

"Though the source or sources of these unfair assaults may be hard to locate, law enforcement officers in Canada, and particularly the R.C.M.P., should get at the root of this trouble. All self-respecting Canadians who believe in freedom and good citizenship should unite to stop the importation into Canada of printed lies, the purpose of which is to inflame the Gentile world and build up hatred against the Jews. Tensions today are running high. Hotheads and crackpots are indulging in wild words and false slogans. The public may be led to believe that a scapegoat must be found. Our Jewish fellow-citizens could be cast in this role, to their hurt and our guilt. This is no time for fair-minded Canadians to join in any hue-and-cry against the Jewish people. Rather, this is a day of opportunity to build a stronger Canadian Unity, a greater nation in which every race and creed and group may share in the happiness of each and the well being of all citizens".

On February 21st, a question was put to the Postmaster General by Member of Parliament, G. E. Walker, whether the postal authorities are contemplating "any action against the National White American Party, who are using the Canadian mails to disseminate literature encouraging racial discrimination and advocating, among other things, the sterilization of people of the Jewish race". The Postmaster General replied as follows:

"I appreciate that this is a matter of some urgency, and I might say my attention was drawn to it a few hours ago. There is no question but that this organization has been using the mails just within the last day or so to promote racial prejudice in an organized way. It is not a case of a crank; it is a case of an organization, but while the thing is disturbing and shocking I personally do not think the Post Office Department has been or should be set up to act as a censor, certainly not in peacetime. However, in view of the seriousness of the matter I have discussed it with my colleague, the Minister of Justice, and officials of my own department".

The Minister asked that letters of this nature be forwarded to him "and particularly the envelopes or containers if they have them, so that I can follow it up with the officials of the Department of Justice and with the provincial authorities".

A survey of the distribution of anti-Semitic propaganda material in the past few weeks seems to indicate that the letters of the National White Americans Party in Toronto has largely a Jewish mailing list; the materials sent to students in Montreal are systematically on an alphabetical listing; there is no evidence of material originating in French Canada; most of the materials used are from U.S.A. sources; the mailing to the students is second class mail but that of the National White Americans Party is first class mail.

A Bill introduced in the House of Commons by D. Orlikow, M.P. (NDP Winnipeg, North) proposes to amend the Post Office Act so as to deny use of the mails to persons who disseminate racial and religious hate.

A Bill introduced by Milton Klein, M.P. (Liberal—Montreal Cartier), entitled "An Act Respecting Genocide", proposes legislative measures against those
